

MEXICO HAS BLOODY NIGHT OF FIGHTING!

Another Person Is Accused

Ex-Postal Clerk Is Linked To O'Donnohues

KALAMAZOO — A third person has been accused of embezzlement and making false entries in post office records in a case involving former Harbert postmaster David O'Donnohue, Jr., and his wife.

Mrs. Barbara Sandtveit, 41, a former clerk at the Harbert post office, is free on bond awaiting trial in U.S. District Court here.

She stood mute when arraigned on the charges before Judge W. Wallace Kent on Monday. A plea of innocent was entered for her.

Trial date has yet to be set for the O'Donnohues and Mrs. Sandtveit.

The three were indicted by a federal grand jury in Grand Rapids earlier and the indictments suppressed until the three were arraigned. Each of two indictments against the three includes seven counts.

SPECIFIC CHARGES
One indictment charges O'Donnohue and his wife Dolores with embezzling $800 in postal funds and Mrs. Sandtveit with embezzling $500 and making false entries.

The second indictment charges Mr. and Mrs. O'Donnohue with embezzling $2,500; Mrs. O'Donnohue with making false entries, failure to remit funds and issuing a money order without obtaining payment. It also charges Mrs. O'Donnohue and Mrs. Sandtveit with embezzling $1,200.

O'Donnohue, 45, was Harbert postmaster from 1961 until he was removed by the Post Office department last March 1. Mrs. O'Donnohue, 43, a clerk at the Union Pier post office, was suspended on Feb. 5 and subsequently resigned.

Mrs. Sandtveit had been recommended for the Harbert postmastership by O'Donnohue after he was removed but she was not appointed. Mrs. Anthony Maranto has been appointed acting postmaster at Harbert.

Griffin: Quiet Senator Who Beat President

How Fortas Fight Started

By JOHN CHADWICK

WASHINGTON (AP) — Robert P. Griffin, the man who sparked the fight that blocked confirmation of Abe Fortas as chief justice, is a back-row senator who bucked President Johnson, leaders of his own party and the nation's legal establishment.

Not that the 44-year-old Michigan Republican, first elected to the Senate two years ago, claims a single-handed victory in forcing Johnson's withdrawal of the nomination Wednesday, at Fortas' request.

Griffin readily acknowledges that the help of GOP colleagues as well as support from Southern Democrats was essential to bringing about the defeat of a nominee for chief justice for the first time since 1795.

Nonetheless, it was the unimposing, soft-spoken senator who spearheaded the drive who turned up much of the ammunition for the opposition.

GETS 'BLIND CALL'
An example: Griffin got "a blind call" tipping him to the fact that Fortas was paid $15,000 for lecturing at a summer law school seminar out of $30,000 in donations solicited by a former law partner, Paul A. Porter, from five men with far-flung business and financial interests.

He still doesn't know who made the call. This was said by many senators to have seriously damaged the appointment's chance. What first started Griffin off was a newspaper item last June 14 saying that Chief Justice Earl Warren "may quit before President Johnson's term runs out. Reason: He hopes to have a voice in selection of his successor."

Griffin says his reaction, as a lawyer, was that "That's none of Warren's business."

SENATE SPEECH
A week later, before Warren's intention to retire was officially known and before Fortas' nomination was submitted, Griffin made a brief Senate speech saying that "I shall not vote to confirm an appointment of the next chief justice by a lame duck President."

In an interview in his office Wednesday, Griffin said that the time "I didn't think of winning or losing. I just decided that on the basis of the apparent political motives involved, I wasn't going to vote for any nominee."

At a Senate Republican Policy Committee luncheon after his Senate speech, Griffin said, he found quite a few of his GOP colleagues agreed.

Griffin and California Sen. George Murphy then circulated a statement declaring the filling of any Supreme Court vacancies should be left to the next president and pledging to oppose any nominees submitted by Johnson in the closing months of his administration.

The statement, signed by 18 of the 36 Republican senators, was issued on June 26 shortly after Johnson announced Warren's intent to retire and his nomination of Fortas, an old friend and advisor, to succeed him. At the same time federal Judge Homer Thornberry, another old friend of Johnson's, was nominated to replace Fortas as an associate justice.

HITS 'CRONYISM'
Griffin denounced the appointments as examples of "cronyism at its worst" and renewed his objection to nominations by a "lame duck" president, but he says these arguments "didn't catch on with a lot of people."

But as the controversy went on, he said, senators ended up with "a basketful" of other reasons for opposing Fortas' confirmation. No vacancy existed because of the circumstances of Warren's retirement, the

Student Rally Turns Into Pitched Battle

MEXICO CITY (AP) —The bloodiest battle yet of Mexico City's student rebellion raged through the night after a rifle shot touched off a thunderous crossfire between snipers and army troops at the crowded site of an antigovernment rally Wednesday.

Police and hospitals reported 25 persons killed, although at 1 a.m. a spokesman said the government's estimate was that 20 persons were killed and 75 wounded.

Estimates of those on the scene were that more than 100 were wounded and a check of three of Mexico City's hospitals showed 72 injured had been treated.

EFFECTS ON OLYMPICS?
The International Olympic Committee called a meeting today to discuss the violence and its possible effect on the 1968 summer games, scheduled to open in the Mexican capital in nine days.

The government spokesman, presidential press secretary Fernando Garza, said of the Olympics: "There is no danger. All necessary precautions have been taken."

He said the fighting began when "one group of students began firing at another." He added: "The end has come to this group of militant students. A cleaning out has been made already."

Firing in the area of the Plaza of the Three Cultures near downtown continued sporadically into the early morning hours. Soldiers said the main pockets of student resistance were two buildings in the adjoining Tlatelolco apartment district.

An editor for the newspaper El Universal said his reporters told him of soldiers finding 20 bodies in upper stories of the Social Security Hospital, where snipers had been seen firing.

FEDERAL CRACKDOWN
Gen. Marcelino Garcia Barragan, the defense secretary, said he had orders to crush the student uprising at any cost.

One newsman said hundreds of persons were lying in the plaza after the first volley of gunfire.

Throughout the evening, snipers with automatic weapons fired from apartment windows and troops brought armored cars into the battle and poured machine-gun fire back into the high-rise buildings. The troops began clearing out the buildings about four hours after the battle began. Hundreds of residents already had fled.

But elsewhere, students roamed the streets with .22-caliber automatic pistols and Molotov cocktails, setting dozens of buses and cars afire.

Garcia said there were deaths on both sides but declined to say how many.

GENERAL WOUNDED
An army official said paratrooper Gen. Jose Hernandez To-

Hard Line Hawk Is Running Mate

Gen. LeMay Is Named By Wallace

Tough Hero Of World War II

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Retired Air Force Gen. Curtis E. LeMay, who wants victory in Vietnam even if it takes nuclear weapons, was made George C. Wallace's vice presidential candidate today.

"One of his outstanding characteristics that I admire greatly is his ability to speak his mind," said the former Alabama governor as he introduced LeMay to a full press news conference.

"Gen. LeMay is a man of peace," Wallace said. "He has dedicated his career to the defense and protection of his nation and the free world."

LeMay, so tough he won the name "old Ironpants" in both theaters of war in World War II, said Wallace has "proven to me that his every action is predicated on a desire to serve the United States of America. In fact, he is the only candidate who has been talking like an American."

"He is the only one who has spoken forthrightly on the issues and has expressed a willingness to take the necessary steps to win the war in Vietnam with honorable conditions," LeMay said.

SURPRISED
"Some of my friends are surprised at my being here today," LeMay went on. "I am somewhat surprised myself."

When Gov. Wallace first asked me to join him as his vice presidential nominee, I declined.

"I reflected on my decision and it occurred to me that my response to Gov. Wallace in his fight had been the same as the response I had received from some of those I had talked to about the matter of Vietnam."

LeMay said, of Wallace's campaign, "This is a peoples' movement that will culminate in a great victory on Nov. 5."

LeMay, speaking slowly and without inflection, explained the failures of the Democratic and Republican parties as he sees them.

"I look at the Democratic party and this is what I see — over the past few years the stature of the United States throughout the World has deteriorated, our moral values and the characteristics which made this country great have fallen by the wayside," LeMay said.

GENERAL LEMAY

FORMER REPUBLICAN

LeMay said he had been a Republican all his life, but had now lost confidence in it. Wallace, he said, "is the only candidate who has been talking like an American."

The Democratic party's Vietnam policy is a failure, LeMay said.

"Our country is involved in a war in Vietnam in which 25,000 American servicemen have been killed and apparently our national policy is one of no will to win," LeMay said.

"I look at the Republican Party and see personally the same thing with no promise of effective remedies," he went on.

"Hundreds of thousands of American servicemen are today making great sacrifices," LeMay said. "They are protecting even the dissenters, the antiwar demonstrators, the anarchists and leftwingers in this country who have been giving aid and comfort to the Communist enemy."

"Someone needs to represent the men and women of our Armed Forces and I intend to do everything I can to aid Gov. Wallace."

Bridgman Bandits Get $275

Daring Daylight Station Holdup

Two bandits robbed a Bridgman service station and escaped with about $275 in a daylight holdup this morning.

New Buffalo state police reported the attendant at the station was threatened with a pistol and locked in a washroom. He broke the door down after the bandits escaped.

The robbery occurred about 8:30 a.m. at the Zephyr station, Red Arrow highway and Church street. The name of the attendant was not immediately identified by investigating officers.

The bandits were described as of Mexican or Puerto Rican descent. Police said they were told the pair was traveling in a cream colored 1962 or 63 Ford with Indiana license plates.

One was said to be about 5 feet 8 inches tall, wearing dark slacks and a western type sports jacket; the other 5-11 or 6 feet with what appeared to be burn scars on the right hand.

Teacher Has Two Years 'Vacation'

ROYAL OAK (AP) — A ruling is expected Friday by the Royal Oak school board on whether it should fire a suspended Dondero High School teacher who has continued to receive full pay for two years.

William L. Bennett, the teacher, was suspended Oct. 7, 1966, after a series of clashes with school authorities.

Under state law, Bennett has continued to receive full pay, $54.50 a day, since his suspension while awaiting the outcome of his hearing.

School Supt. Donald M. Currie said in suspending Bennett that he refused to explain a day's absence. Nineteen charges ranging from insubordination to irregular teaching methods were filed against Bennett, a 13-year-veteran of teaching in Royal Oak schools.

PERU RULER IS OUSTED

Help your carrier to succeed by paying him promptly each week when he calls to collect! He depends on route collections for his profits for delivery.

LIMA, Peru (AP) — The Peruvian army early today overthrew the elected government of President Fernando Belaunde Terry.

Soldiers stormed the presidential palace shortly after 2 a.m. and emerged a short time later with Belaunde, dressed in a blue suit and shouting in Spanish "You are traitors."

The coup took place about 12 hours after Belaunde had installed a new 11-member Cabinet—the seventh in his five-year regime.

Belaunde was taken to an unknown place.

All was calm on Lima streets and Peruvians awoke on a bleak misty day to find that the military had taken over, as they did five years ago—that time with the result that Belaunde took office.

Belaunde had disappointed even his most enthusiastic followers, however, and it had become apparent in recent weeks that a coup was inevitable.

START OF CRISIS

The present political crisis erupted following the signing of a new contract with International Petroleum Corp., a subsidiary of Standard Oil of New Jersey.

Belaunde's opponents claimed Peru had come out on the short end of the negotiation and the former head of the Peruvian Oil Agency claimed the last page of the contract had been lost. He said this page contained his personal notations that guaranteed payment in dollar equivalents regardless of fluctuation of the Peruvian sol.

The controversy split Belaunde's party and finally resulted in the resignation of Premier Osvaldo Herceles and his Cabinet Tuesday.

There had been strong rumors that the military would make a move after the visit this week-end of Prime Minister Indira Gandhi of India.

How the coup will affect her visit was not immediately clear. Shortly after the army took control Communiqué No. 1 was issued to the press in the name of the revolutionary government.

It said the armed forces have taken political and military control in all of the "national territory."

It added that suspension of individual guarantees would control

Our Wrong Way Freeways

The divided highway is the best solution thought of up to the present for diluting the traffic glut and reducing accidents. The confrontation of the dual lane is a major breakdown in safety.

Splitting the traffic among divided lanes requires more construction money and higher, but the system has proven the point made years ago by Oscar Wilde, the playwright and author, that value and price can vary as between themselves.

Michigan's interstate roadways follow this improving trend, except as to the intersections. These are boobytraps.

Too many people, ranging from those who are just plain confused to those under the influence of liquor, drugs or other causes, are entering upon and even departing from the main road by the wrong routes.

Monday two motorists lost their lives at the Decatur intersection area of I-94 because the driver was west bound in the east bound lane.

This raises that intersection area's toll to nine within recent months, all due to somebody being where he should not have been.

Expressway driving is a pleasure while on the primary course.

Unfortunately it turns into something of a guessing game when it comes time to leave the main route or to go upon it.

The basic design of most interstate intersections in Michigan is probably something that could not be corrected short of a federal grant nor short of several years' construction time.

This defect is built in to Michigan's interstate system. When it was laid down, the Highway Department stressed the main mileage and gave the intersections little more than a passing thought.

Michigan acquired plenty of interstate mileage, but extremely poor connector points.

The Department is short of funds at this time because the economy thrust against LBJ's fatcat budgets has fallen heavily against highway subsidies.

The only recourse for the moment is to figure out some better marking system for the intersections.

Even if this is only a coat of paint or more prominent directional signs, attention should be given to making them as noticeable at night as in the daylight. Entering or leaving many of the interstate intersections after the sun has gone down can become a guessing game for the best of drivers.

This intersection condition has been known to the Department for a long time.

There is a reluctance to divert funds from projects already budgeted, specially when the green light for Washington money is on red; but some correction, however makeshift, should be attempted before Michigan's interstate system turns as deadly as its old style roads are.

Feet On The Ground

Outside of scientific circles, the successful moon orbit of Russia's Zond 5 the other day created only tepid interest.

It was the greatest achievement, said people who are supposed to know best about these things, since the soccer ball sized Sputnik being beeping its way around the earth in October, 1957, ushering in the Space Age.

Yet there was no excitement. Even two years ago such a scientific achievement would have set people talking. The Russians, masters though they are of mass psychology, seem to realize that there has been a subtle change of mood.

Have people grown weary of wonders? After all, there are limits to mankind's capacity to marvel. Perhaps not.

What seems to have happened is that people have become more absorbed in day to day problems on their own doorsteps.

In the last year or two Americans have become noticeably more inward looking. The change may have begun even earlier than two years ago, but it has become apparent only recently.

It is not insularity so much as a realization of what they have got, of what they are and of what they might be. This is a most absorbing and all embracing realization. It has so many ramifications, most of them dazzling.

There is the continuing anxiety about youth, or at least that part of it which seems to have had its value distorted by years of living in a society of abundance and which is unable to adjust to the eternal fact of living—that life includes duties (many of them hard and inconvenient) as well as rights.

As a result there was no general outburst at the Russian triumph as there was on other occasions.

This inward looking is not unhealthy. For what will men do when they reach the moon? Sit under a dome and do experiments?

The great achievement, if that is what it can be called, will be bringing back the first handful of dust from the moon. That will be a curiosity.

When all the annals of science have been written, the human being will still have fascinating and eternal variants, the ultimate challenge. It is good, factually and metaphorically, to keep our feet on the ground.

ST. JOE SCHOOLS ARE IN 'BLACK'

A $2,504,299 budget for the current St. Joseph public school fiscal year — in the black by $951 — won formal approval by the school board and guarded praise by residents at a budget hearing last night in St. Joseph junior high auditorium. The revenue will total $2,505,250, Supt. Richard Ziehmer said. Salaries account for 87 per cent of the budget and there is no way to cut the figure, Ziehmer said. The result he added is to try to fit the remaining 13 per cent into the budget. Some of the non-salary expenses like heat and light defy trimming, he noted.

BORN TODAY
To delineate the character of St. Francis of Assisi in a few words is a difficult task. There is a many-sided richness, a tenderness, and originality — so much so that his personality has led him to be called, in the words of one of his admirers, "one of the most lovable and one of the strongest of men."

His enthusiastic love of poverty is undoubtedly the keynote of St. Francis' spirit. The founder of the Franciscan order was born in 1181 at Assisi, his father being one of the town's larger merchants. His education appears to have been slight, even for those days. He was said to have been the leader of the young men of the town in their revels, though he was always conspicuous for his charity to the poor.

One day, on a pilgrimage to Rome, he met a begging leper. Having a special fear of lepers, he nevertheless gave the leper his money and kissed his hand. From that day he gave himself to the service of the lepers and the hospitals.

His love of nature, animate and inanimate, was keen and his preaching to the birds is a favorite theme in art.

In 1209 he added preaching to his other ministrations and soon disciples began to join him. The cradle of the Franciscan order was the chapel of St. Mary of the Angels, called the Portiuncula, in the plain below Assisi.

The chief works of his later years were the revision and final redaction of the Rule and the formation of the "Third Order" of "Brothers and Sisters of Penance," a lay confraternity trying to carry out fundamental principals of Franciscan life.

His remaining months were passed in great bodily suffering. He died in Portiuncula on Oct. 3, 1226. Two years later he was canonized by Gregory IX.

Others born today include Emily Post, Gertrude Berg, Gore Vidal, Thomas Wolfe.

DR. COLEMAN ... And Speaking Of Your Health

I am a teenager with acne. Everybody knows how upsetting this is but I am told it will disappear before long. I hope so. Right now I am getting treatments with ultraviolet lights. Over the radio I heard that too much sunlight can cause cancer and I am worried.

Miss B. I., Maryland

Dear Miss I.: I am glad that you are one of the teenagers who is not too impatient about acne. I am sure your doctor has told you that adolescent acne is caused by hormone balance during this phase of your life. I am certain, too, that he has reassured you that with proper hygiene this distressing period will pass and that soon you will be giving supporting advice to the teenagers who will come after you.

There should be no concern that the ultraviolet treatments can cause a cancer of your skin. I assume they are being given under a doctor's direction and he has told you exactly how long the exposure should be and how gradually it should be increased.

If you are using a home ultraviolet machine you must do so with extreme care. The eyes, of course, must be protected because these rays are powerful and concentrated and can injure the delicate covering of the eyes.

A very important suggestion is never to use such a lamp unless there is an automatic timing device on it that will shut it off. Otherwise be sure that someone is watching the time for you. Many people have fallen asleep under these lamps and have been severely burned. Hygienic patience is an important psychological "drug" for acne.

My ten-year-old daughter is a chronic gum chewer. What is even worse is that she deliberately swallows the gum and frightens us because of the possibility it may cause trouble in her stomach or intestines. Is there any real danger to this?

Mrs. V. L., Tenn.

Dear Mrs. L.: A poet who probably is anonymous and will never compete with Keats or Shelley, once wrote this immortal poem:

A gum-chewing girl and a cud chewing cow.

There must be a difference I'll have to allow.

There is an intelligent expression on the face of the cow. He probably expressed this for the many mothers who dislike chronic gum chewing. Dentists, of course, feel that gum can be injurious to the teeth. Whether or not this has any scientific validity is a controversy I dare not enter into.

The old wives' tale that gum can make the intestines stick together has no basis in fact and should not be a source of concern to you. The danger from swallowing gum is negligible but can hardly be recommended as part of a nutritious diet.

There may be some underlying rebellious psychological reason why your daughter insists on swallowing gum. Perhaps it might be wise to seek some psychological guidance about this simple but irritating problem. The answer certainly is not to lay down any rigid rules for her to stop chewing gum. This may be the exact psychological trap she is laying for you.

SPEAKING OF YOUR HEALTH Last year's antibiotics may have passed the safe time period for their use.

Dr. Coleman welcomes letters from readers, and, while he cannot undertake to answer each one, he will use questions in his column whenever possible and when they are of general interest. Address your letters to Dr. Coleman in care of this newspaper.

The auction was considerably more active at the second table, where Robinson and Jordan held the North-South cards for the United States against Belladonna and Avarelli.

Here, when Jordan opened the bidding with a space, Averelli (West) doubled for takeout. This double, with a singleton heart and unfavorable vulnerability besides, was in keeping with the seemingly dangerous principle followed by the Roman pair that a singleton in an unbid suit is not a bar to a takeout double when there are the high-card values present for an opening bid. When Forquet and Garozzo held the North-South cards, the bidding went as shown. Forquet's four notrump response was Blackwood, and he obviously intended to undertake a slam if it turned out that Garozzo had three aces.

Jordan and Robinson judged the hand exceptionally well to continue on to six spades (down one), since Belladonna would have wrapped up six clubs without a struggle, but, even so, they suffered a team loss of 550 points.

BENNET CERF Try And Stop Me

The little cutie-pie filling out an employment form puzzled momentarily over the line for "Length of residence at present address," then filled in, "About thirty-eight feet—not counting the garage."

In Michael David Harris' engaging book about TV star and columnist Ed Sullivan's career, "Always on Sunday," there is told the day when Ed and the great Jimmy Durante rode out to Halloran General Hospital to entertain the wounded war veterans there.

Durante explained in advance that he had two very remunerative radio dates scheduled for later that very day so that he would have time to do only one number. When he actually did that number, however, the audience was so ecstatic that he grabbed the microphone and did two more complete routines.

Sullivan cried, "You were just great, Jimmy. But now you'll never make those two radio dates of yours."

"Look at the front row of the audience," Durante told him. "You'll see why I forgot all about those dates."

Ed Sullivan poked his head through the curtain and spotted two soldiers in the center divan. They each had lost an arm and were applauding happily by clapping their two remaining hands together.

SJ Police Hunt For Prowlers

Looting Cars In Whirlpool Lot

St. Joseph police were looking for several men who were spotted in the Whirlpool parking lot on Upton drive last night. A foreman said the men were looking through cars until they were observed. They then left, he said.

Art Lerke, the foreman, said several men have reported to him that articles have been missing from their autos recently. The theft of a radio last night, however, was the first reported to police, St. Joseph police said.

The radio was stolen from a car owned by Gordon Johnson of 340 East Empire avenue.

Benton township police also received a report of a larceny from an auto yesterday. Alfonso Fields, of 142 Cornelia street, Benton township, said a tape recorder, 10 tape cartridges and a .38 caliber pistol were stolen.

Benton Harbor police also reported two phonographs were stolen during a break-in at Calvin Britain school.

AMAZING COINCIDENCE: These three happy Twin City area residents are holding tickets for Sunday's World Series game in Detroit, and the amazing thing about it is that they are right next to each other. Ticket applications were sent in different envelopes but when they came back Gordon Kime, Benton Harbor; Mrs. Jeannine Ratter, St. Joseph (center) and her mother, Mrs. Ted Souldard, Coloma, found they are in the same section, same row and their seats are next to each other. Lucky Baseball Fans Beat Amazing Odds

To See 'Series' Together

By DICK DERRICK
SJ City Editor

Mrs. Jeannine Ratter is going to see Denny McLain pitch Sunday, which will mark an amazing coincidence.

Mrs. Ratter, 1014 Market street, St. Joseph; her mother, Mrs. Ted Souldard, Route 3, Coloma, and her uncle, Gordon

Kime, of 2063 Taube, Benton Harbor, sent for tickets for the World Series, and not only did they get tickets, they also got:

- 1—Tickets for the same day, Sunday.
- 2—In the same section 42, and row, Z.
- 3—Their seats are in sequence from three to eight.

So Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Kime, Mrs. Ratter, Mrs. Souldard and two aunts will see the Tigers play St. Louis in Detroit.

APPLY FOR TICKETS

The three drove to Kalamazoo so they could mail their separate ticket applications at the deadline, 12:01 a.m., Sept. 23. They checked mail dispatches here and discovered that the application letters would go out earlier if they mailed them in Kalamazoo and they figured that would be little enough inconvenience.

When the tickets came back there was unrestrained joy. All are Tiger fans from way back. But when they began comparing their seats the coincidence just increased their jubilation.

Kime said he expects he will have to take the telephone off the hook when people read he has tickets. Mrs. Ratter said she didn't care, she was so excited at seeing the Tigers play in the series. All three have been to several Tiger games this summer.

Rowley Warman of Coloma, Mrs. Souldard's father, was recognized on his 88th birthday Aug. 3 on the Tiger radio network and was just thrilled, his daughter said.

Mrs. Souldard's husband will miss the series. He is hunting in Wyoming.

A plea of innocent for drunk and disorderly was changed to guilty and Cunningham paid a fine and cost of $35. Fine on the reckless driving charge was $50. The two charges stem from an arrest Sept. 9 by Benton township police.

David Bryant, Jr., 25, of 1094 Blossom lane, pleaded innocent to a warrant charging him with assault and battery. Bond of $100 was posted.

He Admits Lawyer Was Partly Right

Accused Client Still At Large Following Debate

A police officer who claimed Atty. Harry Laity interfered with the performance of police duty in a hassle over a warrant admitted today the lawyer was partially right.

But Berrien Sheriff's Deputy Michael Devine added:

"We should have just ignored the attorney and made the arrest."

Devine referred to a confrontation with Laity Tuesday in St. Joseph Municipal court as Devine and Coloma Patrolman Ron Weber attempted to arrest a client of Laity's. The attorney contended there could be no arrest without a warrant.

They said the arrest was attempted on knowledge that the warrant had been issued and was in possession of Coloma Justice of the Peace Charles Andrews. The client, Michael McKie, 21, of Benton Heights, managed to slip out of the court while the officers and Laity argued.

Devine said today that technically a warrant should be in the hand of some police officer before an arrest is made, but it does not have to be in the hand of the officer making the arrest as Laity claimed.

The warrant charges McKie with the theft of apples. He had not yet been apprehended, Devine said this morning, but the warrant is in the possession of a police officer.

AGREES WITH HAMMOND

Devine said he also agreed with Prosecutor John Hammond's decision not to issue a warrant for Atty. Laity's arrest. There was no actual physical restraint, he said.

"We should have just ignored the attorney and made the arrest," Devine said on reflection.

Laity was McKie's lawyer on a hearing in St. Joseph municipal court. A charge by South Haven state police of larceny from an auto was dismissed against McKie and his brother, John Lee McKie, 31, of Benton Heights.

Atty. Laity is a candidate for the newly established district court judgeship in the twin cities and St. Joseph. He is also associate municipal judge for Benton Harbor.

Berrien Road Workers Approve New Contract

The Berrien County Road Commission and Teamsters Independent Local No. 7, representing some 115 commission employees, have agreed on a new three-year contract giving most employees an immediate 35-cent an hour raise and 40 cents more over the next two years.

Commission Engineer-Manager Heath Calvin said agreement was reached Monday and the commission is expected to sign the contract Friday.

It gives mechanics 45 cents an hour and others 35 cents an hour immediately, with additional 20 cent across-the-board increases in mid-1969 and mid-1970.

Commission employees have continued to work under old contract terms and negotiations have gone on since the old contract expired July 1. New contract benefits are not retroactive to July 1.

Calvin earlier estimated a fringe benefit package, continued from the old contract, at 85 cents an hour. It includes sickness and off-job benefits of $65 a week, (up from $52.50 to $59.50), major medical and hospitalization insurance for employees and dependents, a pension plan, supplements to workmen's compensation to equal full weekly pay for injured employees, and a $1,000 life insurance policy.

The contract finally settled on, Calvin said, jumps mechanics 45 cents an hour to $3.01; heavy equipment operators up 35 cents to $2.91; medium equipment operators up 35 cents to $2.81; and light equipment operators up 35 cents to $2.71.

A 20-cent an hour increase follows on July 1, 1969, and again on July 1, 1970, Calvin reported. The new contract expires June 30, 1971.

NEW BUFFALO

Two New Arrests In Marijuana Case

NEW BUFFALO—State police here said today two more juveniles were arrested Wednesday, making a total of nine teenagers allegedly involved in what police called a marijuana ring.

Seven teens were arrested Tuesday by state troopers after a parent brought a substance to the state police post and said it was believed the substance was being smoked by the teenagers.

Officers confiscated 34 pounds of a substance believed to be marijuana, which has been sent to the state crime laboratory for testing. Troopers are now awaiting word from the state lab.

Five of the seven teenagers arrested Tuesday were arraigned Wednesday in St. Joseph Municipal court. All five demanded examination on charges of possession of marijuana.

Judge Maurice A. Weber yesterday set the examinations for 2 p.m. Oct. 15. Bond for each was set at $500.

Arraigned yesterday were David John Rudloff, 18, Chestnut street, Timothy James Glossinger, 17 of Box 80 and Donald Charles Tessman, 17 of Elm street, Three Oaks; and William Jordan 18 and John William Lindsay, 17 both of Prairie road, Harbert. All but Rudloff are enrolled at River Valley high school.

The four juveniles who were arrested in connection with the case will be turned over to Berrien county probate court for jurisdiction.

Another Robbery In Niles Area

Victim Answers Call, Beaten

NILES — The fourth strong-armed robbery in the past 10 days was reported to Niles state police this morning.

Troopers said the victim was Herschel McClelland, 55, of 2384 Yankee street, Niles. Troopers reported McClelland said he was awakened last night by an anonymous phone caller who said McClelland should go to his place of employment and lock a door.

McClelland told officers he left his home and was traveling on Carberry road in Howard township of Cass county when he stopped for a stop sign at the intersection of Reum road the next thing he knew the car door opened and he was struck in the face.

According to troopers, McClelland said he was unconscious for about 2½ hours and when he came to, he was slumped over the steering wheel of his car, but in a different location in the same vicinity where he was attacked. Troopers received the call at 4:45 a.m.

Troopers said McClelland had been beaten up and suffered bumps and bruises of the head, cuts on the face and mouth, a broken nose, and abrasions on the legs and knees from being thrown to the ground.

McClelland told troopers when he came to he was missing his watch, $15 in bills, $1 in change, his checkbook and some keys.

He was being treated at Pawating hospital this morning and state police are continuing their investigation.

Hearing Is Set For October 9

Conservationists Lost Earlier Suit In Berrien Case

By JERRY KRIEGER
County-Farm Editor

Plans of the Michigan Department of Agriculture to treat an infestation of Japanese beetles in Berrien county is under legal attack again by the Environmental Defense Fund, Inc. of New York City.

The organization filed suit in U.S. District court in Milwaukee Wednesday asking the court to halt planned treatment of some 4,800 acres with the insecticide dieldrin.

Temporary and permanent injunctions are sought against the use of the "hard" pesticide, claiming "serious, permanent and irreparable damage" will be caused to the Lake Michigan regional ecosystem. A hearing is set for 10 a.m. (CDST) Oct. 9 in the court of Chief Judge Robert E. Tehan.

A similar suit by the conservation-minded group last fall was thrown out by the federal district court at Grand Rapids and by state courts in Michigan. Although the courts ruled in favor of the agriculture department at that time, the actions delayed aerial application until too late in the season. Except for a small area treated with ground equipment, the infested area went untreated last fall.

INVESTIGATION INCREASES

At a recent meeting of the Michigan Agriculture commission at Benton Harbor, Agriculture Director B. Dale Ball blamed the Environmental Defense Fund for the fact that about twice as much dieldrin must now be used as would have been necessary last year. It will take an estimated five tons of the pesticide to blanket the expanding area of infestation this fall, compared to about 2½ tons last year, according to Ball.

The state and federal agriculture department contend dieldrin is the only known material that will control the pest, a voracious feeder on many kinds of plants. A special federal committee, representing a wide range of federal agencies, has approved the dieldrin treatment planned here.

State Agriculture officials claim serious economic losses will be caused to the fruit and vegetable producing industry and the plant nurseries in Berrien county if the beetle infestation is not controlled.

AERIAL SPRAYING

A few small areas of the infestation zone, located largely in Chikaming township, have already been treated. But Donald White, regional supervisor in southwestern Michigan for the state agriculture department's plant industry division, said it probably will be around October 21 before the main aerial application can be started.

But other shoppers still hold their breath when he takes off on the one wheeler with a sack of groceries in his arms, especially when there's a dozen eggs on top.

White, Ball and Dean Lovitt, chief of the agriculture department's plant industry division, were named defendants in the action, along with the department of agriculture. The federal agriculture department is not named.

The suit was filed by Atty. Victor J. Yannacone, Jr., Patchogue, N.Y.

Confusion On School Wage Pact

Board, Teachers Sign Different Contract Proposals

PAW PAW — The Paw Paw board of education learned last night that the board and the Paw Paw Education Association did not sign the same master contract.

It was announced at the board meeting that the state mediator would have to be called back into negotiations between the school board and the PPEA, which represents the teachers. It had been previously announced that the proposed master contract had been ratified by both parties.

Compounding the confusion of the contract was the fact that the Paw Paw school system was changing superintendents at the time when the contract settlements were announced. All previous negotiations had been carried on by former Superintendent Dan McConnell.

When the present superintendent, Albert Kimmel came to the system, negotiations were at the point, where he was told, that the teachers had ratified the contract. What had happened was that the board had ratified a proposed contract and turned it over to the teachers' negotiating committee.

MINOR CHANGES

According to Supt. Kimmel, the board understood the teachers had ratified the same contract. However the teachers had made a few minor changes in the proposed contract and had then ratified the altered contract.

Kimmel says to his knowledge, the contract with the changes in it has never been presented to the school board for its ratification. Therefore actually no contract has been signed as yet.

Kimmel says the differences do not concern any money matters and the teachers have agreed to the salary schedule and economic aspects of the contract, but the differences lie in minor points of non-economic issues.

EXPRESS CONFIDENCE

Kimmel and board president Robert Abrams both expressed confidence that with the aid of the state mediator, these differences can be worked out and a master contract signed.

In other business, the board reactivated the citizen's advisory committee and gave the committee the responsibility to study the middle school, athletic facilities and special education.

The board learned the official enrollment for the year is up by six students over last year. The current year's enrollment is 2,008 and last year's enrollment was 2,002.

The board approved a resolution authorizing payment of interest to the Citizen's Commercial Savings Bank of Flint on the bond issue of $375,000 for the Black River school addition.

The board heard a letter from Athletic Director Dave St. Aubin thanking the board for accepting Bob McParlan as assistant freshman football coach.

No Action In Coloma

COLOMA — No action was taken by Coloma city commission members last night when they met in a special session to consider the relocation of the city's post office.

The post office is now located on West Logan street. Postal officials have selected a tentative location for the new post office at the corner of Paw Paw and North streets on the late Clyde Setters, property which is now used by the city as a parking location.

City officials said they were not entirely in favor of the proposed location because Paw Paw street is a heavily traveled through street. They said they felt there are more favorable sites available in the city, but declined to list them.

Mayor Gust Anton was advised to contact city attorney James Colman and have Colman fill out and return forms to the postal department.

The present post office was built in 1957 and has been claimed too small. There also have been numerous complaints about the traffic jams on West Logan street, where it is located.

Blackout In Fennville, G. Junction

FENNVILLE — Lightning struck equipment of the Consumers Power Co. here last night and left the town without electric power for an hour and a half.

The bolt struck during a severe lightning storm at 10:30 p.m. Power was restored about midnight.

Some parts of Fennville also were without water during the blackout. City maintenance men said they did not know what caused the water pressure to fail. Water pressure was restored soon after the electricity came back on.

A fire alarm came in at 10:45 p.m. but the electrically-powered siren could not be sounded to call out volunteers. Firemen were called by telephone and went to the home of Mrs. Meridian Wright, 319 West First street, where a stovepipe had overheated. They cooled the pipe with hand extinguishers. Firemen stayed at the fire station until power was restored.

Grand Junction in Van Buren county also was left without electric power for approximately the same time last night, after lightning struck a line.

Weesaw Residents Will Vote On Sale Of Liquor

NEW TROY — Weesaw township will be the third governmental unit in Berrien county to vote on an alcoholic beverage issue on the Nov. 5 general election ballot.

Petitions containing 258 names were presented to the Weesaw township board of trustees last night requesting that a liquor by the glass question be placed on the November ballot.

During the general election, residents of the city of Coloma will also vote on liquor by the glass while residents of the city of Buchanan will vote on the sale of beer and wine on Sundays.

The Weesaw township ballot will be worded as follows: "Shall the sale of spirits in addition to beer and wine be permitted for consumption on the premises within the township of Weesaw?"

John Payne, township clerk, reminded citizens that Friday will be the last day to register for the Nov. 5 election. Payne said he will be at his home in Kaiser road all day Friday to register voters.

The board last night voted to have the township emergency unit stand by to provide ambulance service at all home football games of River Valley high school.

The board then instructed clerk Payne to write a letter to the Chikaming township board saying the Weesaw township emergency unit will be available to Chikaming residents for emergency use only and that the Weesaw board will expect a $45 donation for each call in Chikaming.

Fireman Delmar Thompson reported the department made three emergency calls, three fire calls and two practice calls in September.

The board authorized the payment of bills totaling $6,707.46.

Registration Of Voters Is Heavy

South Haven Twp. Clerk Issues Report

SOUTH HAVEN — With Friday the final day to register, new voter registration in South Haven township has been extremely heavy, according to Herbert Lang township clerk.

To date Lang has registered approximately 250 persons and has already received about 35 applications for absentee ballots. He said the absentee application total now exceeds the total he has had for any previous election in the many years he has served as clerk.

At its meeting Wednesday night, the township board discussed the matter of issuing permits for the construction of new gas lines by the Michigan Gas Utilities Co. and agreed that asking the board's permission to make new hook-ups to customers by extensions from main lines might cause hardships as the board meets only once a month. The matter was tabled pending receipt of guideline material from the Michigan Township Association.

The board voted unanimously to pay the four-tenths mill tax for support of the South Haven Community Hospital out of the general fund instead of spreading it on the tax roll, a procedure which has been followed in the past.

In other business the board advised the Michigan Liquor Control Commission that it approved the request made by Harding Markets Inc. for a renewal of a license to sell beer and wine in the new store at the corner of Aylworth avenue and LaGrange street.

Treasurer Franklin Torp was authorized to pay bills in the amount of $6130.35.
